

I am requesting the Indiana Attorney General publish the telephone numbers and e-mail addresses for all those involved with filling the FCC proceeding number 02-278 so I can speak out against this proceeding. The list of the CBA Board of Directors has been published, but for some reason they do not list their personal or business telephone numbers or e-mail addresses (apparently so they won't receive unwanted calls or e-mails). We also need the contact information for the federal representatives' regarding this outrageous proceeding. The Indiana Do Not Call Law has been one of the best laws protecting our individual privacy rights and has made our time at home so much more pleasant. Much of our time at home was interrupted by the phone ringing with no one there when answered, only to have the phone ring a short-time later with a telemarketer trying to sell me something I wasn't interested in. I pay for the phone service into my home and should have some say who contacts me. It should be MY RIGHT to INVITE only those I want into MY HOME whether it is in person, by television, or by PHONE.
